Indian Writing in English(CE3)

Course Objectives: The course aims at familiarising students with the major writings in Indian English fiction, play, non-fiction, poetry and Indian writing translated into English. Students will be exposed to the phases of the development referring to colonial, post-colonial and modern times. They will explore the Indian litterateurs describing their environs and social milieu in the other tongue that came as a foreign language and got rooted into the Indian culture and the Indian psyche helping mould realities from insider and outsider points of view. Also, a deeper understanding of Indian Writing in English (IWE) would play the role of bridging cultural and linguistic boundaries.

Learning Outcomes: By the end of the course students will be able to

- Identify the key texts and authors of Indian English fiction, drama, poetry, non-fiction and the diaspora
- Appreciate the historical trajectory of the above-mentioned genres
- Foster a deeper understanding of IWE and the role it plays in bridging cultural and linguistic boundaries
- Illustrate familiarity with the transition of IWE from the age of translation to the age of attaining a distinctive voice in English

World Literature(CE6)

World Literature refers to a corpus of defining works produced in the literatures of other languages. They may belong to the ancient period, as in case of works from the Greek, Roman and Indian antiquity, or to the contemporary period. The bulk of this corpus comprises works in languages other than English, but made available to readers in English translation. It does, however, include works in English emanating from non-Anglophone countries and some Anglophone countries like Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Course Objectives: The course is designed to familiarise students with the diverse literary cultures from across the world as well with the universals of human experience. A key emphasis will be on how literary experiences travel across the world through reception, adaptation and influence.

Learning Outcomes: By the end of this course students will be able to

- Gain a comprehensive understanding of the concept of world literature and the history behind the evolution of this term
- Gauge the importance of translation in world literature
- Critically appreciate a range of texts from across the world
- Develop a comparative understanding of national literatures in the context of a globalizing world, and an ability to situate texts in their cultural and historical contexts

ContemporaryApproachestoLiteratureAE5

CourseObjectives: Contemporary approaches to literature, which this interdisciplinary course offers for the benefit of students of the English Department as well as allied Departments, does not simply mean to bring the students the latest in the field of approaches to literature. On the contrary, the course seeks to explain the fundamental shift that has occurred when literary studies in the West transitioned from Literary Criticism to Theory. And theory, as Jonathan Culler points out, provides the conceptual framework for literature instead of being derived from it as criticism in its traditional role tended to be.

LearningOutcomes: The course will guide the students through contemporary approaches starting with Russian Formalism and take in major players in the field such as Structuralism, Poststructuralism, Marxism, New Historicism, Feminism and Postcolonialism. The goal of this course is to enable students to enjoy criticism, in its larger theory-informed sense, and deliver, in the words of a recent book by A.O. Scott, ‘better living through criticism.’

*This course has 3 components: ‘Familiar Made Strange’, ‘Structures of Power and Play’ and ‘Decolonising the Mind and the Body’. The first component, ‘Familiar Made Strange’ is compulsory reading. However, the teacher concerned is free to teach either component 2 or 3.

Paper 1 Familiar Made Strange: Russian and Czech Formalism

Unit I: Overview: From Criticism to Theory: Starting with a failed case of theorisation attempted by René Wellek in the 1930s, then a narrative would sketch in the intellectual and critical ferment in the wake of the Parisian student revolt of the 1960s which led to the rise of theory. The well-publicised polemic between René Wellek and F.R. Leavis (“Literary Criticism and Philosophy”, F.R. Leavis, “Literary Criticism and Philosophy: A Reply”) will be required reading in this unit.

Unit II: Dynamic vs Static Form:

Viktor Shklovsky’s essay on Tristram Shandy; Cleanth Brooks, “How Does Poetry Communicate?”

Unit III: Poetic Function of Language:

Roman Jakobson, “Linguistics and Poetics”
I.A. Richards “Two Uses of Language”

Unit IV: Literary System:

Northrop Frye, “Archetypes in Literature”

Yury Tynyanov, essay on literary system (in Russian Formalist Criticism: Four Essays. Ed. Lemon and Reis)
